A diagram illustrating a mechanical system. On the left, a wheel with eight spokes is connected to a horizontal axle. An arrow points from the wheel to the first of five adjacent rectangular boxes. Above the first box, a pulley is shown with a rope passing over it. The rope is attached to a handle that is being pulled downwards, as indicated by a downward arrow. The rope then extends to the right, passing under the first box and then over the second box. This pattern continues, with the rope passing under the third box and over the fourth box, finally extending to the right from the fifth box. A downward arrow is also shown below the fourth box, indicating a weight or force applied to it.
